Truman Will Ask Biggest Tax Increase in History; Parents Protesting Draft

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Angry telegrams and letters pounded congress today from parents protesting the administration request to draft 18 year olds for 27 months military service.

"It started as a trickle in the middle of last week," one senator, who asked that his name not be used, told a reporter. "The protests have been increasing with every mail." Most of them result from three days of testimony by Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense, before the senate preparedness subcommittee.

She and Secretary of Defense Marshall said that President Truman supported their plan for lowering the present minimum induction age of 19 to 18 and lengthening required service from 21 to 27 months.

Permanent Plan

They offered it as a permanent plan, both for meeting the emergency increases in the armed services and maintaining a trained reserve in the future.

Defense officials said they have few alternatives for obtaining the men needed to build the armed services up to the 3,462,205 goal by June 30, approved by President Truman yesterday. This apparently means an increase of around 1,000,000.

May Call Veterans

Unless the army, air force, navy and marines can draft the 18 year olds, Mrs. Rosenberg said they must induct thousands of now-deferred husbands, fathers, college students, farmers, industrial workers, and some veterans now in the manpower pool of men 19 through 25.

Senate Majority Leader McFarland, D., Ariz., said he had received "quite a few protests" against drafting 18 year olds.

Compromises Talked

He told a reporter that there already was some talk about two possible compromises: First, allowing a draft of youths of 18 but prohibiting combat or overseas duty until they are 19, or second, lowering the present induction limit to 18 years and six months.

Senate Republican Leader Wherry, Nebr., said he is confident that the United States can fill its military manpower needs "by emphasis on sea and air strength, without so large an army that it requires drafting of 18 year olds, stripping essential men from our farms, breaking up homes by taking married men with children, and possibly recalling World War II veterans."

Aides of Senator Ives, R., N.Y., said he had received a number of protests against drafting 18 year olds. Senator Dirksen, R., Ill., from another of the populous states, also reported an increasing mail volume.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Capitol hill heard today that President Truman will ask for the biggest tax boost in history—at least $16,000,000,000—which, if congress approves, might mean a 30 per cent general increase in the present tax load.

Moreover, the cost of arming against communist aggression may add 5,000,000 or more persons to the federal tax rolls, bringing the total number of taxpayers to around 60,000,000.

Mr. Truman will outline, in his budget message to congress on Monday, just what he expects the defense program to cost in the fiscal year beginning July 1. He will ask for a tax program to put this program on a pay-as-you-go basis that, he said, will take until "it hurts."

Advance speculation has been that the budget will call for expenditures of $70,000,000,000 or more. That would be $16,000,000,000 or more above what present tax laws—including the post-Korea $8,000,000,000 increase—are expected to yield in revenues in fiscal 1952.

Agree on Boost

Generally, members of congress agreed that taxes must be raised again, but comments were flavored with a note of concern.

Doughton said "we will do the best we can, without strangling or suffocating our economy." Chairman George, D., Ga., of the senate finance committee took virtually the same stand.

Some members previously voiced doubts that $16,000,000,000 more a year can be raised—on top of the new record $50,000,000,000-plus expected to be obtained under existing tax law. The dollar size of the tax load now is far ahead of the World war II record of $43,800,000,000 collected in 1945.

World War II Recalled

Capitol hill remembers that one of the greatest controversies of World war II came upon the late President Roosevelt's call for a $10,500,000,000 tax boost at one time.

It was then that Doughton came up with the now-famous observation: "You can shear a sheep every year, but you can't skin him but once."

Mr. Roosevelt then finally got a $2,500,000,000 increase instead of $10,500,000,000.

Hearings Slated

"In the present situation there seems to be a desire by most members of congress to put the cost of defense on a pay-as-you-go basis, if possible. But when they get down to deciding just who shall bear the brunt of the increases there are bound to be side controversies.

The tax-framing house ways and means committee today set Feb. 5 for the opening of public hearings on the biggest tax measure.

U.N. Units Cling To Wonju Salient

TOKYO, Sunday, Jan. 14 (AP)—United Nations troops today clung grimly to the road-controlling Wonju salient in central Korea. But flanking reds battled deep into the Sobaek mountains to within 65 miles of the old Pusan beachhead.

A series of attacks by 8,000 to 10,000 Korean reds failed to budge the U. S. second division from its bullet-shaped perimeter that points northward deep into red-held territory.

Allied troops withdrew during the night from one strategic hill (possibly 247) which they recaptured Saturday just south of Wonju.

With the second division's American, French and Dutch fighters holding fast two miles south of the transport hub of Wonju, the reds increased their movement southward over the snow-choked mountains on the allied east flank.

A spearheading column of 2,000 communists filtered through frigid wilderness to a point four miles east of Tanyang—the deepest penetration of U. N. lines since the red counteroffensive carried across the 38th parallel two weeks ago today.

This column was 75 air miles south of the parallel and about 65 miles north of Waegwan, pivot of the old Pusan perimeter which U. N. forces held in early days of the war.

The Americans, supported by French and Dutch battalions, seized hill 247, about a mile and a half south of Wonju, at dusk Saturday for the second time in two days. This counterattack came after they had hurled back five wild North Korean "banzai" type assaults on that front Saturday morning.

With recovery of the hill in 25-degrees-below zero weather, the allies were holding staunchly to their horse-shoe-shaped, 15 mile front just south of Wonju.

The red flanking attempts 36 and more miles farther southeast posed a sharp danger to the forwardmost allies, however.

Noted Hailey Woman Dies At Age of 71

HAILEY, Jan. 13—Mrs. Marie L. Anthony, who gained wide fame for her Idaho history paintings on fine china, died at her home here Friday night. She was 71.

Death came as the result of complications from a fall in her yard last Dec. 28. She had a stroke on Thursday, Jan. 4, which resulted in her death at 10:10 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Anthony was born in Ottowa, Canada, Nov. 21, 1879, and moved as a child to Colorado in a covered wagon with her parents. They moved to Hailey in 1886 and Mrs. Anthony had resided here and in Pocatello most of the time since then.

She graduated from Hailey high school and Albion Normal (SICE) and taught school before marrying Frank L. Anthony on May 22, 1904. She also taught for several years after his death.

Her first teaching job was at the now extinct town of Bullion, located west of Hailey. She also taught here and at Lemhi.

While residing in Pocatello she was a member of the Alturas club and was a member of Alturas International at the time of her death.

Her historical designs on fine china first gained notice in 1934 when she was invited to make several pieces for the Fort Hall centennial observance. One of the pieces she painted, a large bowl, later was sent to the National Art gallery in Washington, D. C. Another piece is on display at the Idaho state museum in Boise.

Through the display at the centennial she received many commissions for china decoration and was nominated to membership in the Alturas organization.

Her work in this field was cut short, however, when World war II skyrocketed the price of china. Instead of attempting to explain the necessity for the extremely high prices, she went out of business.

After the war, however, she re-

Credit Firm Retains Two Area Directors

Directors of the Southern Idaho Production Credit association were reelected Saturday on the basis of member votes at a series of three meetings of the association. They are ... Scheid, Jerome, and Elmer Nielson, Wendell.

The final session of the annual meeting of the association was held at Jerome Saturday for about 425 members. Sessions were held in Burley and Twin Falls Thursday and Friday.

Most of the 1,690 members of the association attended at least one of the Magic Valley meetings conducted by George Watt, Buhl, president. The featured speaker at each of the meetings was Ernest Henry, Spokane, regional president of the Production Credit corporation.

Other speakers were A. L. Hanks, Burley, association vice president, who reported for the board of directors, and C. C. Haynle, Twin Falls, association secretary-treasurer.

Traces Development

Henry told association members that an informed membership is vital to the success of a cooperative organization such as the PCA. To bring information to the members he traced the history and development of the PCA movement.

The PCA groups throughout the nation came into being in 1933 when congress provided $120,000,000 to start the organizations, he explained. The objective of a PCA is to provide sound short-term credit to farmers on a cooperative basis.

Explains Procedure

The PCA is entitled to borrow money from intermediate credit banks at the same rate of interest paid by banks, he said. Members of the PCA then borrow from their local association at somewhat higher interest, the difference in interest going to pay the operating costs of the local PCA.

Henry pointed out that many local associations, originally owned by GAFFNEY, S. C. Jan. 13 (U.P.)—Probate Judge W. R. Douglas said a young Negro asked him to look up the name of the girl he had listed on a marriage license application filed Dec. 22.

When the judge delivered the information, the youth flashed a wide grin.

"That's the right one," he said. "I'll be back."

Sheriffs Ask Increases in Police Force

BOISE, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Idaho Sheriff's association today went on record favoring an increase in the number of state police.

Gov. Len Jordan has proposed slicing the state police force from 40 to 25 officers.

The sheriffs also requested that the state officers be designated "highway patrolmen" rather than "state police." The governor also has suggested that the state police take over liquor law enforcement duties as well as traffic law enforcement.

The sheriffs also passed a resolution proposing that sheriffs' offices issue driver licenses instead of receipts as they are now doing, that they retain half of the fee charged and that they give driver examinations if funds are provided and the state furnishes the equipment. Governor Jordan has asked the 1951 legislature to enact a law to require driver examinations before issuance of licenses.

The president of the association, Sheriff Charles McCracken of Caribou county, said issuance of the licenses by sheriffs would save a lot of time and duplication. Sheriffs now issue receipts for driver licenses and mail the original application to the state law enforcement department, which issues the license and mails it back to the applicant.

Student Body Doesn't Favor SICE Closing

ALBION, Jan. 13—Students at Southern Idaho College of Education—all 266 of them—met in a mass meeting Thursday night and Friday in protest to Gov. Len Jordan's proposal to close SICE's doors and send its students to Idaho State college at Pocatello.

The students, by ballot vote, announced that 60 per cent of them would have to give up their advanced schooling for financial reasons if SICE is closed. Another 10 per cent said they would go to ISC or the University of Idaho while remaining 30 per cent said they would go to teacher colleges outside of Idaho.

In preparation for the mass meeting the students prepared a report on why SICE should not be closed. The report, covering 14 legal size sheets of paper, gives the history of the school, its accredited standing, describes its physical plant and outlines the courses of studies offered. It contains graphs showing the number of degrees and certificates the school has awarded down through the years and points out it has graduated an average of 133 teachers a year from 1893 to 1950.

The report also contains a graph on enrollment trends which indicate that enrollment has been almost static since 1946.

The report points out that there are various ways to compute student costs. According to the system used in the report, student costs at SICE are $781.37 a year while at ISC they are $833.34.

However, SICE has asked $524,699

U. N. Panel Approves Cease-Fire Proposal

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 13 (AP)—The United Nations political committee overwhelmingly approved today a five-point plan for an immediate cease-fire in Korea and a far eastern conference attended by red China. Russia voted against it and high diplomats said this foreshadowed rejection by communist China.

The vote was 50 to 7. It came unexpectedly after a committee session marked by cries of "appeasement," "blackmail" and "sell-out" against the new proposal. The cease-fire appeal is the fifth message on the issue of ending the fighting to be sent communist China since the red masses surged into North Korea last November. All other messages were rejected or ignored.

The committee, after a wrangle of nearly two and one-half hours, asked the secretary-general to send the declaration to Peiping with a request for the Chinese communists to say whether it would be acceptable as a basis for consultations on a cease-fire. The vote was 45 to 5 (Soviet bloc) and 8 abstentions.

A key point of the committee decision was that the cease-fire would be in exchange for high level talks with red China on the future of Formosa and the Chinese red request for a seat in the U. N.

The five members of the Soviet bloc plus nationalist China and El Salvador voted against the declaration. The Philippines abstained and Afghanistan and Costa Rica were absent.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik said he voted against the principles because the people of North Korea and the Peiping regime were not represented in talks forming the principles.

The United States voted for the principles and was represented as feeling that a week is long enough to wait for an answer. If it is rejected or no answer is received in that time, it was said, the Americans and others are ready to push a resolution to brand communist China as the aggressor in Korea.

FOURTH VICTIM DIES

Senator Asks Imposition of Drastic Curb

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Senator George, D., Ga., demanded today that the administration impose drastic wage-price controls immediately. He said without them it would be "futile" for congress to vote the huge tax increase President Truman wants.

George, chairman of the tax-writing senate finance committee, also declared that any further tax increase must be prefaced by determination in congress and the executive branch to "cut to the bone" all postponable non-defense spending.

The Georgia senator said in an interview that the administration should have imposed far-reaching wage-price controls last September, shortly after congress authorized such curbs. He added that failure to do so "has gone a long way toward absorbing" in higher costs the two tax increases congress has approved since last summer.

Those increases totaled $8,000,000,000 and Mr. Truman told the lawmakers in his economic report yesterday he wants an additional tax hike "very much more" than that figure.

George said: "It would be futile to undertake a large tax increase unless very drastic wage and price controls are imposed and a drastic reduction of postponable non-defense spending is assured."

City Manager Legislation Is Boise Subject

City officials meeting with the house and senate city and county committees at Boise Saturday were assured no radical revision of the state city manager law is under consideration.

City Manager William R. Smith, Robert N. W. Ballelsen, city attorney; R. J. Schwendiman, chairman of the Twin Falls board of commissioners, and Orville E. Chaney, commissioner of public safety, met with state officials to voice objections to a proposed complete revision of the existing statute regulating the city manager form of government.

The meeting with the state officials was called at the suggestion of Sen. Carl Irwin after the proposed revisions to the existing law regulating the city manager system had been submitted by a group with-

Jerome Pair Hurt as Auto Hit by Truck

Two Jerome people were injured seriously Saturday evening when a Garrett Freightlines truck demolished the car in which they were riding as it crossed in front of the truck two miles and two miles west of South Park.

The injured people are Sherman F. Church, 50, and Mrs. Darlene Loomis. Their physician said both received rib fractures and possible skull fractures and the woman had a broken collar bone. He described their condition as "only fair."

State patrolman and sheriff's deputies who investigated said the truck was travelling east on state highway 25 when the car, driven by Church, attempted to cross the highway off a county road.

The impact drove the car into a borrow pit at the northeast corner of the intersection. The truck left the highway on the left side, smashed through a fence and over several small trees and stopped with the hood only inches from a residence owned by LaVern Lampe.

Mrs. Lampe was putting her two children to bed a few feet from where the truck stopped when she heard the crash.

Officers said had it not been for the trees which the truck smashed, one of which was between it and the house, the truck might have crashed into the bedroom occupied by the children and Mrs. Lampe.

The truck was driven by Warren Staley, Twin Falls.

A store on the southwest corner of the intersection partially obscured the highway in the direction from which the truck was approaching. However, there is a stop sign on the county road from which the car came onto the highway.

Idaho's Growers Accept Terms of 1951 Sugar Pact

OGDEN, Jan. 13 (AP)—Farmers in Idaho and Oregon, who grow sugar beets for the Amalgamated Sugar company have accepted terms of the 1951 beet contract, H. A. Benning, company president, said today.

Under terms of the contract, which has the same price scale as 1950, growers will receive a total of more than $12.75 per ton of beets with average sugar content, providing sugar prices remain at the current level.

The exact price paid for beets is always determined by the sugar content and the price for which the refined sugar is sold.

Utah Sugar Beet Growers association, whose members in Cache and Weber counties of Utah grow beets for the Amalgamated, are expected to announce confirmation of the contract next week.

Marshall Terms Spud Ban Costly

IDAHO FALLS, Jan. 13 (AP)—"The ban on the shipment of anything less than U. S. No. 1 potatoes will cost Idaho and its growers millions of dollars," said Joe Marshall, Twin Falls, charter member of the Idaho potato advertising commission.

"We worked 30 years building up a market for Idaho potatoes and the ban will erase the No. 2 market," he said while visiting here yesterday.

"It must be remembered that U. S. No. 2's are our competing potato in eastern markets. They sell better than the No. 1 white potatoes grown in the east," he said.

The advertising commission is planning to meet Monday in Boise.

Valley Captain Is Reported Missing In Korean Action

Capt. Roy H. Russell, Twin Falls, has been missing in action in Korea since Nov. 30, according to word received by his wife. The telegram from the war department gave no details of the action in which he was reported missing.

Captain Russell enlisted in the army in September, 1940. He served all during World war II and was released from the army in 1946. He returned to active duty in 1948.

During the two years he was out of the army he was associated with the E. W. McRoberts company, Twin Falls, and was active in the national guard.

He was stationed with the second division at Ft. Lewis, Wash., and went to Korea with the division last July.

He has a wife and two small children. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Russell, Twin Falls.

Problems of What to Do With High School Faces King Hill

KING HILL, Jan. 13 — With only 13 pupils in its high school, King Hill residents are faced with a problem of what to do with the school—continue it or seek approval of a county reorganization plan so its pupils can go to Glenns Ferry to school.

The matter was brought to a head recently when the school's basketball team had to cancel some of its games because it did not have enough eligible boys in school to make up a team. There are only five boys in the school and all of them, nominally, are on the team. When one became ineligible the team had to cancel its games.

Arthur Bean, school superintendent, Saturday said it is possible all future games may be canceled. Decision on what to do with school sports, he said, will be reached Monday or Tuesday.

Last Dec. 28 the King Hill and Glenns Ferry school boards met and a tentative agreement was reached whereby King Hill would send its 13 high school students to Glenns Ferry and would transport them to Glenns Ferry and would furnish the Glenns Ferry school with the equivalent of one and one-half or two teachers.

Before the agreement was signed, however, members of the two boards decided it would be best to advise the state board of education of their intention. Another meeting, attend-

C. of C. Meet to Consider Suggestions For Legislation; Proposals Outlined

Members of the Chamber of Commerce will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Idaho Power auditorium to take action on eight suggestions by its legislative committee, it is announced by Guy Rymon, newly-elected president.

The suggestions were discussed by directors Friday at the first meeting of the year. Rymon said directors felt the proposals should be discussed by the entire membership before the Chamber takes action for or against them.

Ryman also announced directors decided to hire a full-time manager instead of one to work part time. The board spent considerable time Friday afternoon in reviewing qualifications of eight applicants for the position.

Suggested by the legislative committee, headed by State Sen. Carl Irwin, are these proposals which the board is passing on for discussion by the general membership Wednesday night:

1. That a general sales tax be instituted to provide revenue for the operation of the state, providing that it replaces some of the present forms of taxation, such as the ad valorem tax or income tax.

Representing the legislative committee, O. J. Bothne, former secretary-manager, explained the sales tax is being considered not as a new tax or as an additional tax but only as a replacement or substitute for present taxes.

2. That the withholding tax idea for the state income tax be put into operation.

3. That the state use date tags on present license plates instead of making new plates, as a steel conservation program.

4. That the highway law as passed last year be amended or replaced and a new act passed creating three highway districts instead of six and having a commissioner appointed from each district who would have authority over the highway department and who would select a commissioner of highways ...

of the state legislature as its budget for the biennium. Using this budget as a base, the cost for each of the 295 students would be approximately $580 or $290 greater than the students' estimate.

Meanwhile, the amount sought by ISC from the state legislature as its biennium budget is approximately $2,249,000. Currently ISC has approximately 1,400 students. Using these figures as base, the annual student cost at ISC would be approximately $850 which is approximately the same as the comparative figure used by SICE students in the report for the mass meeting.

ed by Jim Fowler and O. D. Cole, members of the state board, was held Jan. 4. Both Fowler and Cole advised the King Hill board to refer the entire matter to the patrons of the King Hill school district before taking action.

As a result, the King Hill board met with the patrons early this week and after considerable discussion the patrons decided not to enter into a contract with the Glenns Ferry board and to continue the high school at King Hill for the rest of the year.

Bean, in commenting on the series of meetings, said that once before patrons of the King Hill district had rejected a consolidation plan with the Glenns Ferry district and that more recently they had rejected a reorganization plan. He said that the question of reorganization probably will come up for vote again this year.

Appraisal Sought

Meanwhile, the King Hill school board has had two resignations from the teaching staff. Some time ago Seymour Leibowitz resigned as fifth and sixth grade teacher and was replaced by Mrs. Virginia Jones. Friday, Leibowitz's wife, English and typing teacher in the high school, tendered her resignation. No replacement has been hired for her yet, Boan said.

state's full share in this program.

"The transfer of the bulk of the transportation cost to the local level may require the upping of county or district levy limits for this purpose."

In connection with the last paragraph, Representative Merrill pointed out levy limits of other taxing units had been raised at the last session, and that legislators are aware similar action may well be needed for schools.

Cut Explained

It also was explained the equalization fund for the present biennium was $7,160,000 which included transportation funds estimated at $2,000,000 still leaving $5,160,000 for equalization. On that basis, the $6,000,000 approved by Governor Jordan represents an increase rather than a decrease.

Before this explanation, Kail expressed concern over the one-third reduction of the $9,000,000 requested for equalization. Comparison was made with other states and taxation inequities were discussed. Kail questioned where a saving would be made without cutting teachers' salaries, resulting in what he called Ybargain counter education."

Support Questioned

Miss Lindgren also questioned whether taxpayers at local levels would be willing to pay higher taxes raised by the shift of transportation back to local levels, and was given assurance it would represent too small a portion of the total tax load to be felt.

Part of the governor's message was read in explaining his views on the teachers' retirement fund:

"The budget request that $3,250,000 be appropriated from the general fund to the reserve of the teachers' retirement fund does not have my approval.

Appraisal Sought

"On the other hand, it is my recommendation that the legislature reappraise this entire problem, keeping in mind that you are free to alter any program set up by preceding legislature in the light of two things: operating history and changed conditions.

"It is conceivable that amendments to the federal social security act have brought state and other local government employes under its coverage may be adequate for teachers as well. At any rate this possibility should have full and dispassionate study, something that may not be feasible during a legislative session.

"If there is even a remote chance that the state might some day be unable to keep up with the continuous cash requirements for this program, this issue should be faced today, not later.

Adequacy of Fund

"The present solvency of the fund and its adequacy to meet any existing demands upon it are not in question. But now is the time to determine our future course while existing reserves are adequate to pay back all personal contributions, provide for prior service benefits and meet any transition costs that might be involved in modifying the program."

Representative Merrill pointed out legislators are becoming worried over the rising costs. When passed in special session in 1946, actuaries estimated a maximum of $250,000 per year for setting it up and providing coverage. At each succeeding session the requests have risen, with this year's hitting $1,625,000 per year.

the government, have been bought by the members through their purchase of stock. The southern Idaho group is one of about 130 PCA groups which now are 100 per cent member-owned, he added. When the group became member-owned it became a true cooperative.

Describes Operation

He pointed out several facts about the operation of a PCA as prescribed by federal law. Those facts are:

1. Business is done only with members since a borrower must own stock in the PCA equal to five per cent of the amount he borrows.

2. Only active borrowers from the association are entitled to vote for directors.

3. Each stockholder has one vote, regardless of the amount of stock he owns.

4. There are about 500,000 farmer members of the PCA group of the nation. The average member owns $150 worth of stock.

5. PCA groups made loans of nearly $1,000,000,000 in 1949 and the 1950 figure has been estimated as larger still.

6. The PCA is worth $18,000,000 more than the $120,000,000 for which it originally was financed.

7. The success of the PCA groups has been due entirely to the enthusiasm and efforts of members, directors and personnel.

Points to Factors

He pointed out the factors which make a successful cooperative and urged members to work toward fulfilling these factors.

Hanks, in his directors' report, showed the progress of the local PCA since it was founded in 1934. He told how membership has increased from 367 in 1938 to 1,670 in 1950. Over the same period of time stock has increased from $27,700 to $540,985, reserves for protection of the group has increased from $6,977 to $429,331 and the annual amount of loans increased from $540,000 in 1935 to $11,327,249 in 1950.

Big Reserves

The association vice president pointed out that reserves and stock total nearly $1,000,000. He also disclosed that the Southern Idaho PCA made loans amounting to more than those issued by any other PCA last year.

He contrasted the low interest loans farmers now get through PCA to the high interest loans he got through banks before the existence of the PCA.

Statement Given

Haynie gave the financial statement and pointed out that the greatest additional 1950 expense of the group was nearly $20,000 in income taxes. The year before the group did not pay income taxes because it had not become member-owned at that time.

He said there was not a single dollar lost on the $11,000,000 in loans made by the group this year. "Every member wants to protect his credit," he explained, "and no one pays his debts like the farmer."

WHAT'S AN "ISOLATIONIST"?

"If Taft is an isolationist, please do me a favor and call me one, too."

That statement by Idaho's new Sen. Herman Welker following the Ohioan's history-making speech before the national press club in Washington, brings to mind other developments along the lines of this so-called "isolationist" issue.

It was sparked off when President Truman and others of his administration tried to place a misinterpretation on an address by former President Hoover.

In effect, Mr. Hoover had said that he was not in favor of this country landing another man or another dollar in Europe until the European countries themselves had first demonstrated the spirit to preserve their own freedom. Until they demonstrated that spirit, he reasoned, the United States would be wiser to build up strong air and naval defenses for this country's own protection.

But Mr. Truman and the Fair Dealers have made a political fetish of mothering the world, to the extent that they might possibly have overplayed their hand and placed their country in jeopardy. If so, it could amount to an error too big for them to admit. And they would be all the more likely to condemn "isolationism" for an obvious purpose. To save their own faces, it's a package they must keep "sold" to the American people.

When Mr. Truman told a press conference in Washington recently that "isolationism" is dead in the United States outside the columns of the Chicago Tribune, he no doubt was talking for effect. The mail flooding into Capitol Hill would hardly bear out such a broad presidential statement.

Many Washington observers are admitting in fact that "isolationism" is assuming a more acute form than it took in the Wilson or pre-war Roosevelt days.

Prime Minister Attlee's recent visit here and his refusal to agree with us on recognition of Red China, use of the atom bomb, MacArthur's role and several other matters, are largely responsible.

Many different interpretations may be placed upon the word "isolationism," and Mr. Truman, of course, always chooses the one which would reflect most to our discredit.

But we could even find ourselves "isolationists" against our own will and all our lofty ideals, should all the other free countries give only lip service to the United Nations or supply only token support in any fight for world freedom. Our enemies all would be against us anyway, and an effective relationship with our so-called friends would avail us nothing.

So to condemn as "isolationism" any practical inventory of the support we could expect from the other countries in a new war in Europe is not only far-fetched but short-sighted as well.

For Senator Taft to charge that Mr. Truman "usurped authority" and violated the law in sending American troops into Korea without the consent of congress is in no sense "isolationist thinking."

Before leaving to take up his combined European command, General Eisenhower himself said in just so many words:

"If every sacrifice in America is not matched by equal sacrifices of the European democracies this thing cannot win."

That comes mighty close to meaning just what Mr. Hoover told the American people in his address.

Or, as our own two senators expressed it:

Dworshak—"Continued aid should be contingent on a showing of effort on the part of participating countries to do something in their own behalf."

Welker—"I favor helping freedom-loving people who can convince us that they will stand up for us and fight for us."

HE'LL NEED HELP

The Associated Press story out of Boise, describing the new legislature's reaction to Gov. Len Jordan's message of recommendations, contained one paragraph which every Idahoan should keep in mind:

"It is the first time in many years that an Idaho governor has submitted a budget calling for less expenditures than during the preceding biennium. It is also the first time in many years that a budget has been handed the lawmakers so early in the session."

It was apparent, immediately following his election, that Governor Jordan intends to take his job seriously. He went right to work in familiarizing himself with as many of his administrative responsibilities as possible. It was apparent, too, that he was not chiefly concerning with politics.

So long as Governor Jordan pursues the course he has set up for his administration, the people of Idaho should give him their whole-hearted support. They should make it apparent beyond any doubt that they appreciate his attempted return to efficient state government and aggressive leadership.

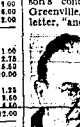

He'll run into plenty of opposition from selfish pressure groups, you can bet on that, and the outcome will be determined largely by the active support he gets from the people in general.

It's to the people's own benefit not to let their new governor down if they're convinced he's trying to do a real job.

It takes courage nowadays to put the brakes on the big political gravy train, and anyone who demonstrates such courage should have our respect.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday this veteran Washington correspondent carries his column to a growing reading audience of general interest on national and international politics and problems. Mr. Tucker is a graduate of Harvard. Ray Tucker at 4306 Kilmeret Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Republicans criticize Dean Acheson's conduct of foreign relations," writes I.G.F., Greenville, Mich., in a discerning and conscientious letter, "and so do a considerable number of Democrats. But exactly what alternative course do The Republicans propose and offer?

"A lot of us plain Americans are much dissatisfied, but we want to know in some clear-cut manner what the alternative is. Mere personal criticism is extremely satisfactory, but so far that is all I (for one) have been able to sort out of the many news reports and columns."

REOANTED—Answer: The ironic and encouraging but generally unnoticed fact is that President Truman and Secretary Acheson have begun to do the very things in the foreign field which Republicans have proposed in Congress or individually. It is not too much to suggest that they have reanted in a big way.

The Republicans, for instance, have demanded that Washington stop playing footsie with Chiang Kai-shek. Mr. Truman has not renewed relations formally, but our military men in Japan are advising and keeping in touch with Chiang on Formosa. Our warships patrol the waters that guard that island. We are giving some aid, but not enough, to thousands of nationalist guerrillas on the mainland.

The opposition has insisted on rearming Japan and western Germany. In our recent sharp note to Moscow we informed Stalin we intended to negotiate final peace with Japan, and also to keep bases and troops there, as Tokyo undoubtedly will request.

We are extending new concessions to the Germans in an effort to persuade them to become an integral part of General Eisenhower's proposed European defense force.

SECURITY—The administration has named an ambassador to Madrid under congressional pressure, although Mr. Truman said only a few weeks ago that it would be a "long, long time" before he would do so.

He has overruled Acheson in favor of the general staff, who insist that France's 1,000,000-man army, landing fields and ports, and with the Pyrenees as a final barrier to any Russian conquest of the rest of Europe, are essential to our security.

O'Dwyer's insistence on the part of capitol hill that forced a change in our attitude toward Tito of Yugoslavia. We plan to rearm and finance him, in view of the fact, save for Russia and Yugoslavia, he has Europe's finest fighting force in such a strategic area as the Balkans.

OUTPOSTS—Finally, we have begun to "get tough" with the United Nations members, especially Britain and France. Frank Pace, jr., secretary of war, told Europe's statesmen and military experts at Brussels we expect them to show a greater will to rearm and to fight.

The same warning has been served on the U. N. that repeated aggression will mean reinforcements to our troops in Korea. General Eisenhower will drum the same theme into their ears when he settles down at his Paris headquarters.

Mr. Truman has been forced to scrap the Johnson "economy program," and to embark on a colossal national defense program. As Hoover, Dulles and Dewey have suggested, we are building a ring of "deterrent bases" around defense outposts around the Soviet heartland from England to Japan.

RECORD—Although decrying "McCarthyism," the administration belatedly has got rid of fellow-travelers within the government, and prosecuted them and their outside "friends" when circumstances warranted legal action.

Instead of describing Stalin as "good old Joe," and insisting that "we will have peace in our time," President Truman now accuses Moscow bluntly and formally, of imperialistic attempts at world conquest."

This impressive record, it seems to me, shows that bipartisan criticism of both Mr. Truman and Mr. Acheson has had constructive results. So constructive that, save for the failure to welcome Chiang back into the fold officially and realistically, the opposition has obtained its basic objectives.

CANADA—In a recent column I contrasted the aid which certain U. N. members are giving us in Korea with the money and supplies we had advanced to them in postwar years. I am indebted to friends on the Tulsa World and to Lieut.-Col. W. J. Finney of the royal Canadian air force, retired, Tulsa, for reminding me that Canada has paid her own way, and also given heavy contributions to other countries, notably Britain.

"We in Canada," writes Colonel Finney, "are very proud of our record in paying our own way in both blood and money in the two World wars, and in the present defense program, and in giving assistance to other countries. At the moment arms and equipment are going to Europe for at least two infantry divisions."

BIOGRAPHICAL—P.J.V.H., Mt. Vernon, O., suggests that I erred recently in listing Gov. Frank J. Lausche as the first state as a Catholic. See "Who's Who," where biographical data is usually furnished and checked periodically by the subjects.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

JOE COLLEGE'S WORLD

The average American college student is so weak on geography that while he himself is not exactly lost, he has lost the large majority of other people. We have this on the authority of the University of Kansas, which has given examinations in geography to numbers of its students. Most of them can name 32 states of the union, two South American countries, and four European countries.

What it adds up to is an ability on the part of the young collegian to live a portion of his native land roughly equivalent to everything west of Oklahoma. This will probably seem least understandable in Texas, but should also be noted in Alaska and Hawaii, which are just trying to get into the union and ought to have some idea of the disappointment as well as the pleasures of being a state.

In South America we suppose the two countries the average student can locate are Brazil and Argentina because they are the largest and without them, the South American continent would look like a reptile instead of an ice cream cone. And in Europe we suppose it would be the Soviet Union and any three other countries, perhaps France, Germany and Italy.

There is little hope for Belgium or Uruguay or Rhode Island to expect the average collegian to know where they are, presumably. They also ran. They were among those present, down in the fine print. Somewhere, somewhere, beautiful lands of somewhere.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

TRAFFIC SAFETY

Traffic safety is a subject most editors hold up their sleeves as something to write about on dull days, or when they need a filler.

Every now and then an editor and his organization get steamed up about traffic fatalities in their district and then launch an effective campaign to do something about it. Some of them have marked success. But too many editors are satisfied to do nothing about it except carry an editorial before every three-day holiday week-end warning people to drive safely.

The record of 1950 should jolt all these editors into a desire to do something about it on a sustained and effective basis. With 558 highway deaths, the Christmas week-end set an all-time high for that period bringing the year above 35,000 highway deaths. This is 3,500 above last year and climbing dangerously fast toward the 1941 record of almost 40,000.

This is a horrifying waste of manpower without even considering the non-fatal dangers. Have editors contemplated that this is like wiping out a city the size of Elkhart, Ind., or Eugene, Ore., or Enid, Okla., every year? At this rate, over a 10-year period, we have succeeded in eliminating cities the size of Louisville, Rochester, or Atlanta.

What is needed is a nation-wide campaign of unprecedented proportions. A program in which all newspapers will participate.—Editor and Publisher.

POT SHOTS

POTATOES—AGAIN

Dear Sir:

It's sort of tough for farmers to grow potatoes and not sell them or else sell them at a less or near loss and then visit grocery stores. Farmers know their spuds aren't worth much because they can't get much for them.

And you walk into a grocery store, nearly any grocery store, and find potatoes tagged as No. 1's selling at the rate of about $4 a hundred or more. That's three times more than farmers can get for real No. 1's.

My question is this: Just where do those spuds pick up all their value between the farm and store?

She reports her phone started ringing just about the time the first copy of the T-N hit the first porch. And it kept right on ringing until about 10:30 p.m. when the family decided it was all over.

Then about 11:35, a visitor rapped on the door, woke up the family to ask about the pooch!

Dear Pots:

Only people carrying a spare head should try speeding on icy pave*ments. I read that some place,* so don't go giving me credit for thinking up something clever.

My reaction, not immediate, but rather slow, was that people who speed on icy pavements must not have even one head. Like my husband says, it's safer on the car to leave it in the garage when everything is icy.

WASHINGTON COLUMN BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Six months of Korean fighting have given it some of the proportions of World war I. The Korean war is still lower in number of U. S. troops involved and casualty totals. But losses are far greater than in the first six months of our fighting in World war I. And the war in the air is on a far greater scale than was ever dreamed of in 1917-1918.

Peter Edson

Accurate figures on the Korean war are clouded by delays necessary to inform relatives of casualties and by military security which censors information of value to the enemy.

U. S. casualties in Korea, confirmed to Dec. 22, included 6,433 dead, 27,012 wounded and 5,571 missing. Total casualties for nearly six months were 38,018.

By comparison, total American casualties in World war I were 50,, 000 battle deaths, 205,000 wounded and 46 finally reported missing in action. There were 126,000 U. S. casualties in the Meuse-Argonne.

American troops that got to France in World war I numbered more than 2,000,000. There were 42 combat divisions of 28,000 men each. Twenty-nine divisions got to the front. The others were broken up for replacements. But there were 12 more divisions in training at home and plans to raise a total of 100.

By contrast, the U. S. division today numbers only 19,000 men, and the department of defense has announced officially a force of 18 divisions. Seven are in Korea, one in Japan, two in Germany, three in the 2d U. S. four national guard divi*sions* called up and two more designated for active duty. This does not include regimental combat teams, anti-aircraft artillery and other specialized units of less than divisional strength.

The greatest number of American troops estimated as being on duty in Korea has been 200,000. To this can be added perhaps 300,000 South Korean troops and up to 100,000 troops from other United Nations. The total is not over 600,000—less than half the communist strength.

The United States was in World war I only 19 months—April, 1917, to November, 1918. In the first six months of that war only about 15,- 000 U. S. troops got to France. First U. S. troops went into action only on Oct. 21, 1917—seven months after war was declared. So U. S. troops were at the front only a year and a half.

The U. S. first division did not get into the line as a full combat division until April 25, 1918. So there was a U. S. front for only the last 200 days—or less than seven months of the war. This is where the Korean war begins to take on the proportions of World war I.

At the time of greatest American activity in France, October, 1918, the U. S. divisions occupied 101 miles of battle line. This was about a fourth of the European front. United Nations forces in Korea are now holding a front of 150 miles.

It is the increased fire power of these modern U. S. divisions, and their air support, that belittles World war I.

Though the United States made 226,000 .30-caliber machineguns in World war I, only 10,000 of them ever got to the front. Only 1,842 artillery units were manufactured in the U. S. and only 407 got to the front. They were mostly 75 millimeter. Only 8,400 rounds of U. S.- made artillery ammunition were fired at the front. The British and French supplied the deficiencies, the exact reverse of today.

In 1917 the United States had 93 serviceable airplanes and two airfields. By Armistice day the U. S. had 11,000 pilots but only 4,000 were in France. Three thousand U. S. planes were made, but only 1,800 got overseas and only 740 planes—mostly DeHavilands 4's were in service at the front the last three months of the war. In the great battle of the Meuse-Argonne, U. S. planes dropped all of 100 tons of bombs on enemy lines in six weeks. That would be only one fair raid today.

The U. S. has more than 740 planes in Korea today and they are far better, bigger and faster than the World war I "flaming coffins." Last June the air force admitted having nine groups in the far east —one medium bomber, one fight-bomber, one troop-carrier, one all-weather fighter and five day-fighter groups. Since then at least two more medium, one light bomber and one troop-carrier group have been identified as being in Korea. Also, two "units" of jet planes. The air force has not further identified them as squadrons or groups.

Navy's task force 77 has in addition four big carriers in Korean waters — Princeton, Leyte, Valley forge and Philippine Sea. Each carries 90 to 100 planes. Also, there are two baby flattops—Sicily and Bunker Hill and the larger Bataan, with complements of 30 to 50 planes each. These are used principally by the marines for ground support.

Against these forces the Chinese reds and North Koreans now have an estimated 1,250,000 troops, or slightly more than the 1,200,000 men the U. S. had at the height of the Meuse-Argonne.

No Wheat Acreage Allotments Slated

There will be no acreage allotments for wheat in 1951, Walter Reese, chairman of the Twin Falls production and marketing administration committee, announced Thursday.

However, there will be a support price for wheat, he added. If farmers desire they can participate in the support program, but they will not be held to any allotment provisions in order to participate.

AS IMPORTANT AS THE MOTOR

It's foolish to drive any car a city block without ample insurance.

You may hit somebody the first 50 feet and get sued for 50 thousand. You may not have 50 thousand, but the law may take your home or attach your wages for years.

Or your car may burn, be stolen, be damaged or cause damage. Yes sir, a car is full of risks. Let us give you figures on the many protections a policy can really give you.

Advice Board For Males on Duty Formed

American Legion post No. 7, Twin Falls, has established an advisory council for area men called to active duty with the armed forces, Thomas Stivers, council chairman, announced Saturday.

He pointed out that the council consists of representatives of investment, and real estate companies, credit companies, law firms, insurance companies and the veterans administration.

"From all indications, several hundred men from this area may be called to active service with the armed forces in the near future," Stivers said. "Experience has shown that this advisory council can be of great service to men entering the armed forces by helping with business and personal problems."

He urged reservists and inductees to avail themselves of the service offered by the council. Members of the council can answer many of the questions which arise when a man leaves for active service, he added.

Members of the committee under Stivers are James Koutnik and Fred Klinke, representing real estate and insurance; Robert Thometz, credit; Arnold Helwege, VA matters, and William Langley, legal matters.

Any person who wants advice from the committee may contact Stivers at the American Legion hall office or may telephone him at 1425.

TIMES-NEWS PUBLIC FORUM

He Sees No Need For Economy Bid By Idaho Leader

Editor, Times-News:

I always considered Idaho to be an up-and-coming state with a rosy future, but things must really be in a bad way if it requires the so-called economy measures that the governor has recommended.

I don't see how there could be any cause for Mr. Jordan's fears. As for population, each census has always shown a sizeable increase, and with more and more land being reclaimed and mines reopening, it should continue to show even a greater increase. There must be some wealth in Idaho. We couldn't have kept our institutions running and built up a reserve of $2,000,000 without receiving some increase from some place. With more people and more money coming into the state all the time, how can the governor contend that conditions are so bad as to warrant such drastic economy?

The main thing I would like to know is why the two teachers' colleges were singled out to bear the brunt of Mr. Jordan's axe? Anyone who knows anything about the teacher situation in Idaho and the rest of the country as well, knows there is a definite shortage. Yet the two main sources of good well-trained teachers would be "knocked out" when they should be constantly built up." Idaho now ranks 37th in the nation in school education. How can we hope to raise these standards if we destroy our best facilities for improving? Does Mr. Jordan consider saving a few dollars more important.

It's not too late for Mr. Jordan to change his recommendation to the legislature and start working for the welfare of education in Idaho instead of for the farewell of education in Idaho.

New Approach to End Korean War Gathers Support

Editor, Times-News:

Congratulations on your editorial of Jan. 10 quoting the letter written to the Cleveland Press by wince F. Lincoln, president of the Lincoln Electric company.

His letter approached the mess in Korea, as he says, in a perfectly honest and straightforward way. I am not convinced that such action as he suggests calls for controversies such as isolation, appeasement or what have you.

The suggestion embodied in his letter will require, if attempted, statesmen endowed with the intestinal fortitude of patriotic Americans—not the confusion of politicians armed with diplomatic dead feather.

Peace is not a thing to be purchased in terms of money and the weapons of war. It is a permanent peace we need and not just another of those interims between wars.

SICE Educator Sees Drastic Effects From Jordan's Plans

Editor, Times-News:

Educational thought is a highly sensitive barometer of social change.

If the recommendations of Gov. Len Jordan are adopted, drastic changes in our elementary, secondary and higher institutions of learnings will take place in the immediate future.

The over-all effect will lead to great disturbances in the administration of the schools in all categories because of the lack of funds, depletion of the teaching staff of the public schools and colleges and the closing down of the ungraded and one-teacher type schools in the rural areas.

As the tempo of industrial production becomes accelerated as a result of the war needs, teachers will leave their positions to work for the war effort at an increased remuneration. The serious educational thinking which is now taking place can hardly be over-emphasized. If there ever were an urgency for higher salaries, the keeping of our teachers, improvement in service to train and retain competent teachers, it is here and now.

The type of instruction as given in the Southern Idaho College of Education is in keeping with the most modern trend of the times and regards "education as an investment in people."

The products of this institution have acquitted themselves well as attested by superintendents throughout the state. The historic faith of our people in education shall not diminish. The people will continue to demand better schools and increase their financial support of such schools.

He Opines Economy Move Will Wreck 50 Years' Advancement

Editor, Times-News:

To the people of Idaho:

This is my adopted state and I reside here for no other reason. However, right at present, I find myself firmly believing that some people in this particular state have gone completely out of their minds. This in itself isn't reason enough to leave the state but some of you are sanctioning a measure that stands a good chance of wrecking all of the advances you have made in the past 50 years!

You have two institutions in your state that rank among the best in the United States when it comes to educating the teachers that will instruct your children. Namely, the Southern Idaho College of Education and the Northern Idaho College of Education. These two institutions are the source of nearly 90 per cent of Idaho's teachers, and are specially managed and arranged for the purpose of training teachers.

The University of Moscow and the State college at Pocatello are good institutions, that I cannot deny, but they are not special teachers colleges. At neither institution do they have the special education courses in completeness that are offered as a special feature in teacher colleges. The future and fate of this nation or any other free nation depends upon the properly educated man. Never in the history of the world is that fact so predominate as it is today.

You who guide the fate of the state by your directives, let not anyone destroy the life of humanity. You want to be debt free. Don't we all, but don't be fool enough to destroy the foundation of all other enterprise. No business, no group of people, a state or nation can exist for long by eliminating its source of education. Teacher training colleges are that source of all education and let no man deny it. Without that trained teacher you have no other institution.

People of Idaho, if you are bound to cut expenses rather than try to pay for the good things that you have accumulated over the years, then by all means do your cutting on state projects that are not of basic necessity. Don't be the fool to cut off the nose to spite the face. You are not cutting down expenses by destroying your teacher colleges; you are destroying the source of intelligence of every business within your state.

No Atomic Bomb Will Avert Wars, Woman Declares

Editor, Times-News:

We are a Christian nation in spite of the fact we are not as good Christians as we should be.

Dropping an atom bomb on helpless women and children would not automatically stop our troubles in Korea. Men would go on slowly dying and freezing too. Bombs are dropped in spots—but in between spots some kind of life goes on.

Dividing the world into two camps —communists and non-communists —will not solve everything either. In many parts of China and Asia worthwhile people become communists because they don't have anything to eat or wear.

I believe if the leaders of all countries were more interested in the common man and his welfare they would not need to spend so much on guns and war. The world in general usually puts its emphasis in the wrong place and on the wrong things. All any of us can do is adhere to the truth as much as we can.

BIRD LIKE GOOD HYBRID CORN
Raise These Busy Layers
130 poultry raisers averaged 24.3% MORE EGGS from their Hy-Lines than from their standard breeds in side-by-side tests. Each poultryman raised his Hy-Lines and standard breeds under similar conditions. The Hy-Line advantage was mainly due to breeding because the other conditions in any one test were similar for both kinds of chickens. Raise busy laying Hy-Lines, the chickens bred like good hybrid corn. Order now.

There is no guessing as to where it will lead. So deep are the channels that the united effort of men cannot break over.

Is it any wonder that the Christians of Ephesus were admonished not to walk according to the course of this world? The apostle knew where it would lead all who follow it; therefore as a Christian he had to sound a word of warning.

Perhaps some people become a little bored because the preachers are always reminding them of the things they are neglecting.

But I think it would be unChristlike for us to hold our peace in the hour of need. Scores of people shamefully admit they are not living like they should, yet they do nothing about it. They are expecting to anchor in the Haven of Rest by some merciful manner. Let us not be foolish.

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."—Galatians 6:7-8.

THINGS THAT COUNT

Not what we have, but what we use;
Not what we see, but what we choose.
These are the things that mar or bless,
The sum of human happiness.

The things nearby, not things afar;
Not what we seem, but what we are.
These are the things that make or break;
That give the heart it's joy or ache.

Not what seems fair, but what is true;
Not what we dream, but good we do.
These are the things that shine like gems;
Like stars, in fortunes diadems.

Not as we take, but as we give;
Not as we pray, but as we live.
These are the things that make for peace,
Both now and after time shall cease.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

French Lee Johnson, a MURTAUGH resident since 1910, still is "going strong," as he put it when asked how he feels. Johnson was born April 7, 1863, at Council Bluffs, Ia. When 7 years old he moved with his family to Neola, Ia., where he learned the fundamentals of farming, his occupation ever since.

He married Lena A. Snyder on Aug. 23, 1894, at Victor, N. Y. He met his wife while attending business school at Rochester, N. Y. Since he had gone to grade school only six or seven months each year in the winter, he decided, when he was 30 years old, that he needed more learning. So he went to business school in Rochester.

"I've been able to write a check ever since," he says.

When he finished school Johnson decided to visit a cousin in Murtaugh. He says he liked the country and since his wife's health was not so good he decided to stay. He purchased some land just across the road from his cousin and in 1910, he and his wife and four children moved to Murtaugh.

The first two years on the farm they lived in what is now the cow barn. Johnson's father had been a carpenter and the son had learned the fundamentals of the trade. So in the fall of 1912 he started to build a two-story house. It was completed in time for occupancy the following spring. He still is living in the same house today.

Mrs. Johnson died in 1948. His three children, Ina Mae True, Oliver W. Johnson and Charles L. Johnson all live in Murtaugh. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson are living with his father in the home he built.

Johnson, in speaking of his children, says they're all close enough so he can holler to them from the back porch.

Even though Johnson is nearly 88 years old, he still is active. Every summer he is out in the fields.

"I can still pitch hay as good as any of them, but they won't let me," he complains.

He walks to the postoffice every day and still milks six cows twice a day. He claims it took all the fun out of milking when they got the milking machine.

In recalling the old days in Murtaugh Johnson tells how the entire community used to gather at the old red, brick schoolhouse for a big Thanksgiving dinner. The men would play ball while the women were preparing the dinner. Only one other resident of Murtaugh has lived there longer than Johnson. She is Mrs. Jack Fuller.

With the passing of A. P. Denning, the number of relatively few original homesteaders on the Minidoka project was decimated again.

When the new reclamation project was thrown open for entry in 1904 settlers of every walk of life and from all sections of the United States flocked to Minidoka county with great expectations and enthusiasm. Within a few years the arduous work of grubbing sagebrush and replanting the fields many times after the winds had blown the young plants out proved be too discouraging to many of the original homesteaders. Only the more courageous eventually reaped the rewards of their early pioneering.

Such was the case of Denning, who had farmed in Iowa, Minnesota and Washington before coming to Idaho.

Born in Iowa, he and his wife were married at Wankon nearly 60 years ago. Three of their four daughters were born there.

At Harrington, Wash., they heard of the opening of the Minidoka project and early in 1904 Denning set out for the new Idaho country. He landed at Minidoka. He was accompanied by Bill Newton, a resident of Harrington, who later opened a grocery in HEYBURN. While making arrangements for transportation they were joined by Judge Bond, who afterwards became well-known here. Denning and Newton filed on tracts close to Heyburn while Bond chose a tract not far from RUPERT. After filing Denning and Newton returned to Washington and early in 1905 came back to the project accompanied by Mrs. Denning and children.

With a car, they brought their household goods to the homestead site. The car was the first to be brought to the project. With no roads in Minidoka county in 1905 the automobile remained parked near their homestead, the winds whipping sand over it until it was nearly covered.

The Dennings never used the car after they arrived and in a few years gave it away. After constructing a 24 by 24 shack, Denning was $200 in debt. He went to Monarch and Porters construction camp and was surprised to learn he had known Monarch in Iowa. He went to work for the company immediately and Mrs. Denning became camp cook. In a year they were able to move back to the farm.

During the early years, in order to make ends meet, Mrs. Denning ran a restaurant while Denning worked on grading. Hazel, the fourth daughter, was born on the original homestead, and died there in 1916. The Dennings at one time owned four 80-acre farms in the vicinity of PAUL and HEYBURN. One of these farms now is owned by Chris Hansen at Paul. The Dennings once refused an offer of $35,000 for the 80 acres near the river.

Retiring in 1944 Mr. and Mrs. Denning moved to Rupert but Mrs. Denning says her husband never was happy here. The three daughters still living are Mrs. F. F. Burchell, San Diego; Mrs. C. Manner, Boise, and Mrs. I. C. Stewart, Stevensville, Mont.

CHIP CHAT

by O. J. "Chips" Bothne

Hello Folks: Today I want to visit with you about lunch boxes. I suppose you are saying "What does that have to do with SUNRISE potato chips?" Well, several things in fact. First, SUNRISE chips should be in every lunch box because of their high food value. It would take more than a half pound of spuds to equal the food value of one ounce of SUNRISE potato chips.

WE NEED MORE INDUSTRY IN IDAHO! Everyone from the day laborer to the governor has made this statement. We need more payrolls—we need more men carrying lunch boxes. The next question is, how can this industrial development be accomplished? The facts are that on a national basis 85% of all new industries originate within the communities. Some local man, or a group of men get an idea on how to process a local raw material into a finished product. Then, if the product is good, and the price fair, he prospers, and a new industry is born. Everybody in the community gets into the chips then because it means new payrolls and more lunch boxes to be filled.

We are trying to furnish that expanded industry to Idaho. We are Magic Valley spuds—we promise TOP QUALITY—and we want and need your business . . . and we'll give you more for your money.

Just reach for SUNRISE when you buy chips.

Appreciatively yours,
O. J.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

The schools of the past rated discipline as the most important function of the teacher. Get discipline and all else would follow.

By discipline the school authorities meant the suppression of all expression by the pupils. They must do nothing under their own power. They must not talk or move without an order.

In a school where I worked long ago there was a teacher whose discipline was praised by everybody except her pupils. Somehow they did not appreciate it as they should have, being ignorant and troublesome.

One day I had occasion to go to her classroom to get some information that the office required. The room was as silent as the grave. The children were bent over their desks writing. The teacher tapped twice with her pencil and down went every pen, up came every head, behind their backs went every pair of hands. Stiff as ramrods the poor little things sat awaiting the next command.

"All those who live on the west side of the avenue raise hands." The hands rose. She counted them and told me the number. The hands still stayed aloft.

The teacher asked me some questions. I replied. Still the hands stayed aloft and I ventured to say, "The children still have their hands raised. They don't know you do not need them still."

"Oh, don't they? They don't dare take their hands down until I say so."

That, my friends, was what was known as discipline. That should be rare today. I hope it is gone forever, but now and then its ghost rises as when a puzzled young teacher writes to ask, "How can I get discipline in my classroom? The Head says my discipline is too loose. I get good work but he wants the room quiet and the children under control all the time."

The children should be under control all the time. That is basic. But that does not imply silence, helplessness, total abnegation of mind.

True discipline springs from self-control, a mutual understanding between pupils and teacher of what is needed on both sides to establish and maintain a relationship that allows for the fullest flow of ideas, the highest achievement of purpose, combined with consideration for the rights and feelings of all.

A classroom filled with busy children working under the direction of their free minds, will not be silent. There will be movement, a throbbing life that gives a tone to the room that is unmistakable to the trained mind and ears of a school director. Guidance and control do not mean dictation and suppression.

Is bedtime trouble time at your house? It need not be if you know how to overcome it. Dr. Patri gives his excellent advice in leaflet P-23, "Bedtime Trouble." To obtain copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station O, New York 16, N. Y.

Big Wind Blows Sanity Code Out of NCAA's Ruling Book

DALLAS, Jan. 13 (AP)—The big wind that blew the controversial sanity code out of the National Collegiate Athletic association constitution dropped to a zephyr today. Still it managed to stir up a few dust whirls over the continued existence of the constitutional compliance committee and the adoption of a policy on bowl games.

Both these matters came under a complete constitutional revision which was the principal business of the final session of the 45th annual NCAA convention. The compliance committee was retained and the report of last year's bowl games committee was made a part of the by-laws, but only after some discussion.

It was agreed to refer the question of the continued existence and the functions of the compliance committee to the constitutional revision committee for further study. It is to bring in a revision of this part of the by-laws. This decision came after a motion, to delete all mention of the compliance committee from the by-laws, had failed.

Max Farrington, George Washington, sponsor of this proposal, argued that the committee no longer has any function since Friday's constitutional amendment did away with most of the sanity code. Some delegates believed that the retention of the principle on recruiting called for the continuation of the committee.

Even before this came up, President Hugh C. Willett of Southern California had told the delegates that he and the NCAA council were in doubt as to where the NCAA now stands in respect to the code, in view of yesterday's action.

Gem Staters Capture Shoshone Tourney

SHOSHONE, Jan. 13—The powerful Gates brothers Gem Staters from Wendell made a rout of the seventh annual Shoshone Redskins outlaw tournament, winning the championship game from Twin Falls United Oil 66-31 after coasting past all other tournament competition with ease.

Twin Falls gained the finals of the tournament by winning two games Saturday afternoon in a marathon finish. United Oil downed Idaho State freshmen 64-54 and then came back an hour later to edge the Shoshone Redskins 47-45.

Games Friday night saw the Gem Staters wallop Idaho State 79-29, Mountain Home forfeit to United Oil, Idaho State eliminate Gooding Elks 48-44 and the Gem Staters trip Shoshone 52-40.

Murray Satterfield and company on the Gem State team built up a 28-15 lead over United Oil at the half and coasted in from there. Satterfield, former All-America for the University of Utah, scored 24 points in the championship game.

In two contests Friday, Satterfield pumped 54 points through the basket. He received ample help in all three games from Roy Irons, Vern Ellis and George Kiel.

In the Saturday afternoon games, Rex Wells was the big gun in the Twin Falls wins. He scored 22 points against Shoshone and 21 points against Idaho State freshmen.

The final finish of the tournament placed the Wendell team first, Twin Falls second, Shoshone third and Idaho State fourth.

Konstanty Inks New Phil Contract

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13 (AP)—Jim Konstanty, the Philadelphia Phillies' ace relief hurler, pitched himself to "a comfortable increase" in salary.

Big Jim signed his 1951 contract yesterday, a pact a club spokesman says puts him in the higher baseball bracket.

The Strykersville, N. Y., native signed after negotiating with Club President Bob Carpenter.

Konstanty made about $10,000 in 1950 and guesses of his new contract ranged up to $25,000.

Filer Nips Gooding Cagers 42-41 As Jerome Outclasses Buhl 39-27

The Filer Wildcats came from behind a 10-point deficit in the last quarter to nip the Gooding Senators 42-41 and the Jerome Tigers shellacked the Buhl Indians 39-27 in two Big Seven conference contests Saturday night.

Other action in class B quarters saw Mackay upset Bellevue 52-44 at Bellevue, Eden run past Gooding State 55-38 at Gooding, Kimberly nip Middleton 41-39, and Fairfield nip Wendell 31-30 at Wendell in a last second flurry.

Gooding took an 11-6 first quarter lead and built up a 25-16 margin at the half. But Coach Gene Killoy's Wildcats came back on the floor to narrow the gap to 35-28 at the start of the final frame and go ahead as the game ended.

Gary Allison paced Filer with 14 points, while Osborne was high for Gooding with 17. Gooding won the junior varsity game 44-26.

Jerome outclassed Buhl and took revenge for a loss last week on the Buhl floor. Coach Gerald Dellinger's squad pulled away easily in the first part of the game. Reserves played most of the second half.

The Tigers were paced by Larry Brackenbury and Vaughn Evans. Brackenbury ended the evening with 16 points and Evans with eight. Brown was the sparkplug for Buhl.

The Indians had trouble finding the basket and were hampered by their own rough play. At times the first half resembled a football game with players sprawling in every direction. Buhl won the junior varsity game 23-22 as Jerome rallied strongly in an attempt to overtake the visitors.

Fairfield won its second hectic game in a row at Wendell. Friday night saw the Mushers go into two overtime periods before winning. In the last eight seconds Saturday Ted Frostenson grabbed the ball after a bad Wendell pass, raced down for a set up and made it. In the act of scoring he was fouled and sank the free throw for the victory. Peterson missed a foul shot for Wendell after the game had ended. Wendell won the junior varsity game 44-24.

Eden pulled away in the second quarter to race by Gooding State and Mackay came back strong in the final period to gain its margin over Bellevue.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By BOB GILLIAM

Basketball was king Friday night in Magic Valley and there was no doubt about it.

Two high points were the struggles between Burley and Rupert at Burley and Twin Falls' tussle with Idaho Falls in Twin Falls. A dozen other games throughout the valley filled gymnasiums and kept partisan rooters more than interested.

Gillam

If an account of attendance at all these games were available, we would estimate it would fall between 7,000 and 9,000 students and fans. It's no wonder they call basketball king sport.

At Burley, they opened the doors at 5:30 p.m. for the Bobcat-Pirate clash, a rivalry that dates back to humanoid days.

It wasn't long before seats were at a premium and by 7 p.m. if you got a niche to either sit or stand, you were considered fortunate indeed.

The Burley gym probably rocked on its foundation as Burley went ahead in the first quarter and the favored Rupert team rallied to come back, take the lead and win. Tension? You could scoop it up with buckets.

At Twin Falls, Harold Brown, new head coach for the Bruins, relaxed in his dressing room before the game and said, "I'm afraid of this one."

"Why?"

"But Cross, my center, has a flu bug and Bob Nielsen, another starter, can't suit up. He's limping around with torn ligaments in his foot."

He was right, Twin Falls dropped a five-point decision to a hot Idaho Falls team. With Cross and Nielsen in top shape, things would have been different. Twin Falls probably would have won.

But you can't take anything away from Idaho Falls or its cheering section that disregarded icy roads and had a good representation in the packed Twin Falls gym.

Francis Clark, genial coach at Idaho Falls, has a quintet that's going to make the Big Six conference sit up and listen. They are sharp shooters, good ball handlers and they are tall. By comparison, Idaho Falls has only three men on its leading 10 under six feet. Twin Falls has two over six feet on the varsity.

It will be a long time before we forget the Idaho Falls rooting section.

They generated enthusiasm rarely seen and youthful pep that's refreshing.

Other schools can take a lead from the display. Not only did the Tiger fans yell themselves hoarse, present two colorful yell leaders, a good pep band that played long, loud and at the same time on key, but they presented a show by themselves after the game.

After the all-boy Twin Falls Pep band, a talented outfit decked out in new marching sweaters, played the Bruin fight song, the Idaho Falls band struck up a jumpy tune.

The Tiger rooters stormed onto the floor and started a victory dance. They paired off with something halfway between the Charleston and a schottische, clapping their hands, locking arms and giving out with "heh's!" at appropriate moments.

Ten minutes had gone by, most of the crowd had left and they were still at it. The band still was blaring when we left and for all we know, they might still be at it. There's school spirit, plus.

Yanks Faced With Holdout Problem

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—New York Yankee General Manager Georg Weiss moaned a bit yesterday.

Usually tight lipped when it comes to salary talk, Weiss admitted at his weekly press conference that all is not well in the contract department.

Weiss didn't name names, but it's understood his top worries in the holdout squad come from former Salt Lake City pitcher Fred Sanford and Yogi Berra, Joe Page, Tommy Byrne and Hank Bauer.

Hot Tigers Trip Twin Falls in 39-34 Loop Clash

Big Les Roh and Bobby Falash carried on a personal scoring duel Friday night, but Roh had more assistance from his Idaho Falls teammates and the Tigers stormed for a 39-34 victory over the Twin Falls Bruins here Friday night in a rough and tumble Big Six conference basketball game.

It was the third straight league victory for the workman-like Tigers and the fourth straight conference loss for the injury-weakened Twin Falls Bruins. Coach Harold Brown's squad played without starting guard Bob Nielsen and could use Bud Cross, big center, only sparingly.

A preliminary game saw the Acequia Indians hold the Twin Falls junior varsity to only one point in the third quarter to come from behind for a 41-37 victory.

Idaho Falls jumped to a 4-0 lead in less than one minute of play as Bob DeYoung and Roh skipped through the Bruin defense for lump shots. From there the Tigers rolled on to an 11-8 first quarter lead and a 17-12 margin at the half.

Twin Falls came back strong after the half with Falash, Eddie Allison and Lee Bartlett driving the rally wagon to tie the count at 20-20. Falash connected on another to put the Bruins ahead 22-20 midway in the third quarter.

But it was Roh again, this time sinking shots from 35 feet out that pulled the Tigers into a tie, ahead and on to victory.

The Bruins rallied again in the closing minutes to cut an Idaho Falls 11-point lead to five points, but the clock ran out on them before reaching Twin Falls team as Idaho Falls played ball control.

Roh shared top scoring honors with the brilliant Falash. Each accounted for 18 points. Falash was at his best on the backboard, at times sweeping both boards against the taller Tigers with little or no assistance from his teammates.

The well-coached Acequia squad traded basket for basket with Twin Falls jayvees in the first half but trailed 23-20 at the half. Coach Harry Dennis' Indians came back to score nine points in the third quarter to only one for the Bruin yearlings.

Twelve Twin Falls freshmen and sophomores saw action in the contest.

Glenns Ferry was ahead at the half, but New Mountain Home came back to take the game with 12 points to four in the third quarter. Glenns Ferry won the junior varsity game 25-25.

The hot Bellevue cagers warmed up to a 30-16 lead at the half, then went on for a 59-29 victory over Richfield. Bellevue girls defeated Richfield girls 51-35 in the preliminary contest.

Hailey, Eden Cagers Post Impressive Wins

The Hailey Wolverines and the Eden Grizzlies posted impressive victories and the Fairfield Mushers and the Albion Blue Devils posted wins by narrow margins to highlight action Friday night for class B high schools in Magic Valley.

Hailey defeated Butte of Arco 54-46, Eden walloped Hazelton 88-34, Albion nipped Malta 32-30, Fairfield shaded Wendell 49-47 in two overtimes, Carey dumped Dietrich 49-34, Hagerman downed Castleford 43-26, Middleton stopped Murtaugh 50-41, Mountain Home beat Glenns Ferry 36-28, Bellevue doubled Richfield 59-29 and Hansen stopped St. Teresa's of Boise 25-15.

Paced by the 27 points scored by Jay Buhler, the Hailey Wolverines, potentially one of the top class B teams in the state, started to click. The Wolverines showed slow, but came back fast in the second and third quarters for the victory.

The game was scheduled for Arco, but was transferred to Hailey because of an outbreak of scarlet fever in Arco.

Hailey also won the junior varsity game 43-36.

Eden hit 60 per cent of its shots to roll over Hazelton 83-34 at Hazelton. Littimer paced Coach Ken Beard's team with 22 points. Eden players broke into the scoring column. Eden also won the jayvee game 32-30.

The Pirates are the only undefeated squad weeks of league play. Other action saw the Jerome Chasers start clicking to smo Gooding Senators 61-33 at Jerome and Oakley came back in an overtime period to shade a fighting quintet from Kimberly 60-56 at Oakley.

Coach Dutch Budge's Burley hoopsters started fast and pushed along to an 11-9 first quarter lead. From there Billy Hays and Abbis Uriguen found the range for Rupert and the Pirates were off to their victory.

Rupert took an 11-9 halftime lead and held a 47-35 margin going into the final frame.

Hays hit for 27 points, while Uriguen kept up his average with 22 from 11 field goals. Billy Burton cornered the scoring honors for Burley with 21 points.

A preliminary game saw Rupert's Jayvees whip Burley 48-18. Gibson scored 17 points for Rupert, while Clark led Burley with six.

Jerome hit 49 per cent of its shots and played a tight defensive game to send the Senators back to Gooding with a defeat. Most of Jerome's shots came from close in after smooth-working plays set up the score.

Jerome was aided by the return of Denny Wright, sidelined for the past three games by a sprained ankle. He connected on five of seven field goal attempts. Evans took top scoring honors with 17 points. Monte Stricklin led Gooding with 10.

With the score knotted 53 all at the end of regulation play, Oakley got hot in an overtime period to win 60-56. Junior forward Bill Day was the man of the hour for Oakley as he scored six of the seven points in the overtime. Harley Sizemore made all three for Kimberly.

Oakley won the game on the free throw line. Both squads connected for 24 field goals, but the Hornets hit 12 of 22 free throws to eight of 24 for Kimberly.

The Oakley win gave the jayvee game 36-34. Burch tallied 13 for Oakley as did Nelson for Kimberly.

Five Decrees For Divorces Are Granted

Charges of desertion, extreme cruelty, grievous mental suffering and of a felony conviction were grounds for five divorces, decrees in which have been handed down by district court here.

Wilbur Flemmer and Earl P. McKittrick, Twin Falls, both won divorces because their wives deserted them.

Flemmer was married Feb. 20, 1946, at Newark, N. J., where Mrs. Flemmer is living. The couple has no children or community property, according to the complaint. Rayborn and Rayborn were his attorneys.

McKittrick and his wife were married April 30, 1949, at Jackson, Wyo. She is living in Springfield, Ill.

In addition to desertion, he claims she was guilty of extreme cruelty. They also have no children or community property.

McKittrick was represented by Stephan, Stephan and Heap.

Edith Irene Bates won a divorce on the grounds that her husband, Hector George Bates, was convicted of a felony and is serving a term in the state penitentiary.

Mrs. Bates was given custody of their three children and was awarded household furnishings. The couple was married March 1, 1933, at Twin Falls.

Stephan, Stephan and Heap were the wife's attorneys.

Darrell Eastman charged that his wife, Evelyn Eastman, caused him grievous mental suffering. Both are Twin Falls residents.

They were married July 10, 1950, at Twin Falls. A property settlement agreed to by the couple was approved by the court. Lawrence B. Quinn was Eastman's attorney.

Custody of two small children was given to Vivian Larison, Twin Falls, who was divorced from George Larison on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Larison was ordered to pay her $50 per month to help support the children. The couple was married June 2, 1948, at Reno, Nev. W. L. Dunn was Mrs. Larison's attorney.

New Courses at School Reported

New classes at the Twin Falls high school for next semester were announced by the school Saturday. Students will start to register Thursday for second semester classes.

Auto driving, under Harold Brown, will be offered first, second and third periods. A second period advanced algebra class will be taught by James Swisher.

Ray Pike will teach classes in basic mathematics during first, third and sixth periods. A basic machine course for men going into military service will be taught in the sixth period by Max Winters. Phila Bishop will instruct a public speaking class during the fifth period.

The school also announced that a few girls may enter a third period home economics class.

Action Brought on Contract for Auto

An unpaid balance of $450 on an automobile sale was the basis of a complaint filed Saturday in probate court by W. J. Hollenbeck against O. B. Romjue, Jerome.

The complaint says Romjue purchased the 1939 Chevrolet automobile from Hollenbeck on Feb. 1, 1949 at a prearranged price of $600. He promised to pay the amount in full not later than Feb. 7. Hollenbeck charges that only $150 has been paid. He is asking judgment in the amount of the unpaid balance plus six per cent interest.

Ray D. Agee represents Hollenbeck.

Atomic Bomb Protection to Be Discussed

Army reserve personnel and representatives of the Twin Falls civilian defense organization will attend a discussion on "The Organization of a Community Against Atomic Warfare" here Monday. The lecture is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Twin Falls organized reserve corps headquarters.

The speaker at the meeting will be Capt. Donald L. Herbert, sixth army. He is one of eight army officers now on tour of 80 cities in western United States to instruct reserve components and civilian defense organizations.

Captain Herbert will use charts and motion pictures to demonstrate steps a community must take to protect itself against attack. He also will use visual aids to show the effects of atomic bombs against people and buildings.

He will outline the responsibilities of various agencies in establishing protection from attack and will explain methods of fulfilling these responsibilities.

Twenty-five Twin Falls civilian defense officers are expected to attend the reserve instruction meeting.

Building Permits Take Sharp Drop

Activity in the Twin Falls building trades continued to slump during the past week with only one building permit application filed. Estimated costs for the damage repair listed in the application amounted to only $1,500.

This is in sharp contrast to estimated costs for remodeling operation indicated on four applications filed during the week ending Jan. 6 when costs totaled $8,100.

2 Valley Men Are Fined in Deer Slaying

Keith Pollard, 21, and Jim Werst, 33, both Hansen, each were fined $100 and $3 costs Friday in justice court after they pleaded guilty to a charge of killing deer out of season. Both were committed to the county jail in lieu of the fines.

The two men were arrested at 6 p.m. Thursday in the Rock Creek area when Grover Davis, state game conservation officer, apprehended the pair with two freshly killed deer. They were released on their own recognizance for their Friday justice court appearance. Davis confiscated the men's firearms and the two deer for evidence at the hearing of the two men.

A plea of leniency by Werst, who said he had not worked since mid-fall and that he took the game to feed his family, was overruled by Justice of the Peace J. O. Pumphrey, who said:

"Adequate agencies are set up to provide necessities for families in need. You have recourse to these agencies and it is not within the jurisdiction of this court to sanction the breaking of the law of this state despite the circumstances when such acts can be circumvented."

The game will be turned over to the Magic Valley Memorial hospital but under the newly revised law the men's firearms will be returned to them.

Petition Is Filed In Man's Estate

A petition for letters of administration in the estate of the late Frank G. Edwards, who died Dec. 31 without leaving a will, was filed by Mrs. Della Edwards Saturday in probate court.

The heirs are Mrs. Edwards, widow; Gladys Wass, Fairfield, Pa., and Lois Albee, Emmett, daughters, and Merland Edwards, son, Twin Falls.

A hearing on the petition has been set for 10 a.m., Jan. 24.

Of 112 enlisted men authorized for the company, 53 can be of the grade of sergeant or higher, he explained.

Dietrich Residents Watch as Second 'Sphere' Visits Valley

DIETRICH, Jan. 13—Reports of another flying "sphere" in Magic Valley came to light Saturday when it was learned that various residents in Dietrich watched one speed by late Monday afternoon.

According to Bertha Town and Mrs. Jud Ford, the object streaked across the sky at an "extremely fast" rate of speed around 5:30 p.m. Both Miss Town and Mrs. Ford are agreed that the object was like a large ball and that its speed, as it streaked from the west into the east, was much faster than an airplane.

In the dim light of late afternoon neither woman was able to determine how large the object was but both estimated the vapor trail it left behind was as "wide as the road."

The "sphere," they said, was dark in color and was unlighted. They could hear no noise as it sped across the sky.

Approximately a month ago three Hagerman men watched a similar sphere as it danced and gyrated approximately 100 yards from them on the Gooding-Bliss highway. The object they watched showed phenomenal bursts of speed and once, as they clocked it across section lines, it was traveling 600 miles an hour. It, too, finally disappeared in a "streak of speed."
